Doctor Spalting

Dr. Sara Robinson

Dr. Sara Robinson was our special guest on April 21 at 8:00 pm. Dr. Robinson is a professor of wood anatomy at Oregon State University and she specializes in wood fungi (mycology). She develops colored pigments on wood by mold fungi. This should be a very interesting presentation as she shares the latest science with us. Her website is <http://www.northernspalting.com/about-me/robinson/>

It was a very interesting presentation. She can create very interesting spalting. I highly recommend you watching this video.

The Video is up on our North Carolina WoodWorker UTube channel the link is here:
